INDIANA.

Election Day at Harrison's Home.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 6. The day opened with a cold drizzling rain In the working precincts of the city, where the heavy Democrat vote is cast, the polls were opened at six o'clock by politicos At the other precincts eight o'clock was the opening hour In the second precinct of Gen Harrison's ward 100 votes were cast in the first hour out of a total vote of 358 Voting at the other precincts is almost as heavy Large crowds surround all voting places A great deal of challenging is being done but everything is quiet. The business streets of the city present a deserted appearance Toward 11 o'clock the rain ceased At 10 30 two men wearing full overcoats with collars turned up walked quietly along Seventh street and entered the polling place. It was and his son, Russell The distance from their residence to the polling place is some three and a half squares The chute being open when the General arrived he walked up to the window and handed in his ballot As the inspector dropped the paper into the box he called out the name "Benjamin Harrison," and the clerk responded, "Number 247," signifying the number of ballots cast up to that hour which is over two thirds of the vote of that precinct After the General had voted the crowd gathered around him and a short season of hand shaking took place After remaining about 20 minutes and chatting familiarly with acquaintances the General walked back to his house. If the General felt anxiety over this eventful day's work not a shadow of it was manifest on his smiling countenance.

General Harrison a Conspicuous
Gen Harrison passed the afternoon at home About three o'clock he went out for a walk, the weather being chilly, but threatening The General is by all odds the coolest person about the household Numerous correspondents called, seeking to talk with him, but to all he sent a polite declination His house to-night will be as strictly private as any other citizens, his friends having arranged to receive visitors in the city and none there not to be willing to see replies to be sent to be given.

Harrison Receives Congratulations
INDIANAPOLIS Ind., Nov 7—2 30 A M The city is wild with enthusiasm over reports from New York Harrison is receiving returns in his library surrounded by his family, only Gen Miller, his law partner, and a few intimate friends and is being deluged with dispatches, congratulating him on his prospects but he will not make them public to-night

A Republican Gain of a Congressman
INDIANAPOLIS Ind Nov 6 Orange County, nearly complete, gives Harrison 300 plurality, a gain of 133 O'Neill Democrat in the second Congressional District is probably defeated by the election of Bracken, Republican

Boston Nov 7 General Bulletin The doubtful states are very close and it will need late returns to settle anything The Republicans carried New York by 15 000 plurality Cleveland's majority in Kings county, the latest figures show, will be 14 000, but he has not held his own in Kings county, his plurality there is about 21,000, which is a loss of about 4,000 on 1884 From the state above Bronx river the Republicans in almost every section show great gains If the proportion that is now received keep up Harrison will come to the Bronx with from 80,000 to 85 000 plurality

The Largest Vote Ever Cast
ST PAUL, Minn., Nov 6 Dispatches throughout Minnesota are bright and clear The returns show that the vote was the largest ever cast in the state In Hennepin county, has been much complicated because the number of votes registered was greater than could be recorded At seven o'clock, when the polls closed, several hundred voters had failed to get their ballots in
